Self Lubricating Bearing To

Local Plant

MEANS EXTENSION

New Structure 140x75 Feet
To House Unit—Ready
For Use By Fall

Announcement was made today by P. J. Flaherty, president of the Johnson Bronze Company, of the erection of a new unit at his plant in which will be manufactured a self lubricating bearing, developed and perfected by the research technicians of the company. The building which will be of steel, 140x75 feet is now under construction and it is anticipated that the plant will get into production of the new bearing sometime late in the summer or early in the fall.

The new bearing is something new in the industry. Several years ago Mr. Flaherty conceived the idea of manufacturing a bearing which contained oil, and which would never require additional oil during the life of the bearing. Calling in his technicians Mr. Flaherty outlined the idea and the work of developing it began. For three years the technicians kept at it, experimenting, testing, discarding unsound ideas, and finally their labors were rewarded with a bearing that has withstood the most rigorous tests.

PA NEW OBSERVES

The sidewalks near Spruce street on East Washington street have been repaired in several places. Last night two small boys, stepping over the new pieces of lumber that serve as a fence to keep the pedestrians from using that sidewalk while the cement is wet, and by the use of the light of the torches sitting there and by the use of their pen knives, they carved their initials.

It's interesting to watch the different passengers alight from the large buses that drive through New Castle on their way to the larger cities. Especially so was one fellow who got off the New York to Chicago bus yesterday that stopped on the Diamond. His attire consisted of the following: new bright tan shoes that evidently pinched and hurt so that he couldn't lace them and which were ankle high, tight fitting suit of a grey hue, all topped off by the shiny straw topper that he wore on the back of his head uncontrollably; by uncontrollable is meant that his locks actually stood out stiff from his head.

PA News noted spring flowers had been covered over during the night at a number of residences about the city, to protect them from damage by frost.

Poinsettias in bloom at Christmas time are not at all unusual, but to see one in the middle of April! Mrs. Charles Arner has one in the window of her Highland avenue home.

Graduated Tax On Capital

Conferees' Decision

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The new $5,300,000,000 "business relief" tax bill will be enacted into law within a week as the result of a compromise effected by a senate-house conference committee on the vital undistributed profits and capital gains taxes, it appeared today.

Action of conferees in yielding to President Roosevelt's demand that the principle of the undistributed profits tax be retained in the law was expected to provoke sharp criticism. Especially in the senate. The conferees committee, however, rejected Mr. Roosevelt's proposal for a graduated tax on capital gains. Senate tax leaders were confident the senate will approve the report.

House tax leaders, jubilant over winning their battle for retention of the profits tax, even though in modified form, predicted early favorable action in the house.

The conferees resumed work today in the lengthy bill, with members generally predicting that they can speedily effect a complete agreement on all differences.

Conference Agreement
The conference agreement on the vital issues provides:
1. Accepts house corporation income tax rate on corporations earning under $25,000 a year. Rates are 12 1/2 per cent on first $5,000 income; 14 per cent on next $15,000; 16 per cent on next $5,000.

Some Damage To Fruit Results
Heavy Frost Will Damage Fruit
Which Is In Full Bloom,
McCulloch Believes

Some damage, the extent of which it will not be able to determine for some time, will result from the heavy frost experienced last night, H. R. McCulloch, representative of the Lawrence County Agricultural Association stated today.

In cases where fruit trees were in full bloom, the damage will be the worst, Mr. McCulloch stated, but it is not believed that the loss will be serious in cases where the flowers were not yet out in full bloom or had passed this stage.

The fact that the sun came out bright and warm early this morning would increase the damage done by the frost as it would literally cook the blossoms, Mr. McCulloch states.

Junior C. of C. Banquet Pays Notable Tribute To Industrial Leaders

Over 250 Gather At The

FAIRLESS LAUDED
DESPITE ABSENCE

President Of U. S. Steel Corporation Detained In Alabama By Business

Attended by local plant leaders, an impressive delegation of out-of-town industrial notables and by large groups of representative citizens of the entire community, the Junior Chamber of Commerce's testimonial dinner to manufacturers of this section last night in The Castleton wrote new industrial history and demonstrated clearly that all New Castle, from its first citizen to the last, has the highest of regard for industry.

The banquet celebration took place with its announced special guest of honor—President Benjamin F. Fairless of the United States Steel corporation—in Birmingham, Ala. A last-minute urgent demand forced him to telegraph word that he could not attend.

Over 250 Attend
A throng of 255 jammed the hotel ballroom and overflowed into its crystal dining room to do honor to the assembled industrialists.

The whole testimonial program, summed up into very few words, was the citizenry's gesture of appreciation for all industry—industrial locally and industry the nation over.

President John L. Perry of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation headed the party of industrial leaders who came here from Pittsburgh by special train for the program. He was guest of honor.

The principal speaker was Dr. Robert Williams, able president of Ohio Northern university, at Ada, O., who, in a speech which brought thunderous applause to the speaker, spoke of the challenges facing present-day democracies.

The program opened with Dr. J. J. McElvaine, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, pronouncing the invocation. Then an elaborate dinner was served. Soft electric organ music played by Mary Louise Kirkpatrick filled the ballroom as the guests dined.

Jones Opens Program
President Presley N. Jones of the junior chamber assumed immediate charge as dinner closed, formally welcoming the large audience on behalf of the junior chamber.

He introduced Curtis M. Yoh, vice president of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad, who brought the distinguished Pittsburghers here aboard the three-car special train.

Mr. Yoh, the insurgent advocate, in his address, O. later in the evening, left the banquet early.

Then President Jones turned to his saddest task—announcing that President Fairless, the man whom the dinner primarily honored, had been suddenly called to Birmingham.

(BULLETIN)

HANGER, Va., April 23.—The death toll in the Red Jacket coal mine explosion near here was finally fixed today at 41 miners. Twenty bodies had been exhumated from the fiercely-blasting ruins, while 21 other workers were still within the demolished mine and given up for dead.

A limb-weary army of rescue workers, which has been backing frantically since late yesterday afternoon at the hot rock and rubble separating them from the victims of one of the most terrific mine blasts in history labored desperately on in an effort to retrieve the unrecovered bodies.

None Of Entombed Alive
Mine officials, however, admitted no hope possibly could be held that any of the entombed men are still alive. A glance at the picture of desolation and destruction as the sun's first rays lit the top of Henry Keen mountain, where the Red Jacket is situated, explained their pessimism.

PITTSBURGH, April 23.—Contractors were ready today to begin actual construction Monday of the Tionesta dam, second of the series of flood control projects designed to save Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania from high waters.

United States engineers here said equipment to begin excavating was moved to the site this week. By fall, approximately 300 men will be employed in the construction of the reservoir, which will take two years to build and will cost approximately $1,000,000. Four million of which represents cost of land and property damage.

Work on the Crooked creek project was started last fall. The Tionesta dam will be 935 feet long and 125 feet high.

Take a little tip and a little trip, and see the industrial fair, and I'll guarantee (just from you to me) you'll be mighty glad you were there. There's tin and cement and there's pottery, and cans that are headed for, there's radiators and big steel tanks and bushings for many a car. It's a swell affair if you'll take my word, no matter how far you roam, you'll find no better and listen to this, the story is all made here at home. So go up and thrill to the show they have, these lads of the Junior C. they deserve your thanks and they sure hate mine, the weather is sure there.

Daring Art Robbery In England

Gang Of Burglars Cuts Five Magnificent Paintings Out Of Frames

ESTIMATE PICTURES WORTH HALF MILLION

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff
CANTERBURY, Eng., April 23.—In the most daring art robbery since Leonardo Da Vinci's priceless Mona Lisa was stolen from the Louvre, a gang of burglars with a rare sense of values stripped five magnificent paintings from the palatial home of Sir Edmund Davis, near here today.

Breaking into ancient Chatham Castle unnoted, the thieves got away with masterpieces by Rembrandt, Reynolds, Van Dyck and Gainsborough, conservatively valued at half a million dollars.

Cut From Frames

As in the case of the Mona Lisa, all five paintings were cut from their frames with a skilled hand and presumably rolled up so their bulk would not attract attention. Hours after the robbery was discovered, no clue to the thieves had been found.

Sir Edmund, a multi-millionaire with widespread mining interests, has long been famed as an art collector. His private gallery, housed in a huge vaulted room of the old castle, is rated as one of the finest in England.

The paintings which were stolen, any one of which would have brought a king's ransom at auction even in these troublous times, were as follows:

Rembrandt's "Saskia At Mirror," Reynolds' "Earl Of Suffolk," Van Dyck's "Man With A Dog," Gainsborough's "Lady Chalmers" and his "Pitt In Red Robes."

Harry Alexander To Aid Red Cross

Will Serve As Roll Call Chairman During Campaign Next Fall

SPRING ROLL CALL RALLY IS PLANNED

In connection with the Spring Roll Call Rally, planned by the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, it was announced today by Chapter Chairman Ralph F. Davis, that Harry Alexander will serve the chapter as roll call chairman next fall.

The Roll Call Rally, which will take place Friday, May 27, in the Castleton, will be the occasion for getting plans under way for the roll call, which will take place in the fall.

Mr. Alexander has served the Lawrence County chapter in an efficient manner on a number of occasions in the past. During the war, he was one of the chapter's most active workers, and continued as a member of the board for a number of years. Several years ago, he served as chapter chairman. He has always maintained an interest in the affairs of this great humanitarian organization and the members of the board of directors felt that he has consented to serve as roll call chairman this year.

Mr. Alexander's aides for the roll call will be announced at the spring rally, along with other plans for the campaign.

Early risers found a heavy frost covering the ground this morning, and gardeners who were foolish enough to set out tomatoes, peppers, and other plants too early, found them killed. It is not believed that serious damage resulted to fruit and hardy vegetables, however.

self lubricating bearing the Johnson Bronze Company will have the most complete line of bearings and bushings in the entire world. No other plant will have such a complete line. At the present time the plant manufactures bearings and bushings of cast bronze, steel lined with babbit, cast bronze and graphite lined, and many other types. The new addition to the industrial family is a departure from anything that is now being made and undoubtedly will be received enthusiastically by the automotive world.

The value of the new bearing lies along several lines. It can be used in such places as universal joints where it is difficult, almost impossible to get oil. The new self lubricating bearing will never need oil added to it for contained in the fibres of the bearing there is oil which is released when the bearing gets warm.

When production reaches its peak, the new bearing will result in the employment of 250 or 300 employees, Mr. Flaherty estimated.

At an impressive ceremony, quietly performed this morning in St. Paul's Episcopal church, Miss Alma Kivine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kivine, of 12 West Cass street, became the bride of Howard Lowery, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lowery, of R. D. 7, Butler, Pa.

The ceremony was planned at 10:30 a.m. with Rev. A. M. Stump, pastor, officiating. He used the single ring service.

The bride chose for her wedding a smart navy blue weight wool dress, tailored in style and of street length. With it she wore a blue-velvet coat, navy shoes and hat with navy veil to match, and white gloves. Her shoulder corsage was of gardenias.

As her only attendant, she had her sister, Miss Eva Kivine who was attired in a powder blue creation with navy accessories, and Miss Jane Lloyd, who wore a dusty blue frock. Her accompanists were her brother and sister, both wearing spring flowers in pastel hues, were identical.

The groom was attended by John Parker of Butler, who served as best man, and Philip Thompson of Pittsburgh. The bride and groom are graduates of the local high school with the class of '32, and of the Griffiths School of Beauty in Pittsburgh. She is affiliated with the Strouse-Hisberg Beauty salon of this city. Mr. Lowery graduated from Butler high, and Beckley college. He is a member of the Phi Alpha Zeta fraternity, and is connected with the American Rolling Mills of Butler.

Mr. Lowery and his bride, left immediately afterwards, on a few days wedding trip.

Five hundred formed the evening's diversion and prizes were captured by Mrs. Joseph Hyde, Mrs. Russell Cartwright and Mrs. Vokey. Later, a lunch was served by candlelight.

Mrs. Betty Kirschner of Adams street will entertain in two weeks.

THE MAN WHO DOESN'T WANT ANYTHING

HENRY FORD'S prospective call at the white house next Wednesday probably will be an unusual experience for President Roosevelt. Mr. Ford says he wants to "give the president a chance to look at somebody who doesn't want anything." It is likely that the president wouldn't need the aid of treasury statisticians to count up his visitors in the past who haven't wanted anything, even personal publicity.

But the experience will be unusual for the president in other ways too. He will be talking not only to the country's No. 1 rugged individualist, but to the man who, more than any other one person, represents the ability of American business to produce goods, make profits and provide jobs. Perhaps if the president were to invite Mr. Ford to dinner, as well as luncheon, he would absorb enough good ideas about putting the country on a sound basis to enable him to rout depression and get on the high road to recovery.

SPORTS FOR ALL

Are America's colleges emphasizing the wrong kind of sports? Professor Eugene C. Bischoff, of Penn State, seems to think they are. In any event, he suggested, at a recent meeting of the American Association for Health and Physical Education, that it might be well to pay greater attention to individual sports which the college man can enjoy after graduation.

Football, according to Professor Bischoff, is played by but five per cent of the graduates. But such athletic activities as golf, swimming, tennis, handball and fencing are enjoyed continuously for many years by those who have learned to engage in them.

From the educational standpoint, this point of view seems logical. It would seem far more constructive for the colleges to emphasize sports in which the majority of students can become reasonably skilled and gain lasting benefits than to concentrate excessively upon those played for only a few years by a minority group of highly trained specialists.

GRADE CROSSING ACCIDENTS

Automobile drivers who attempted to "beat the engine" to American grade crossings in 1937 again were responsible for a record-breaking total of deaths and injuries attributable to mixups between motor cars and locomotives.

The total dead during the year in grade crossing accidents involving automobiles is placed by the Interstate Commerce Commission at 1607, or an increase of 5.79 per cent over the 1519 killed in accidents of the same type during 1936. Injuries from grade crossing accidents in 1937 totaled 4904, against 4662 in 1936.

Since the aggregate death rate from traffic mishaps of all descriptions climbed only four per cent in 1937 compared with 1936, it is apparent that grade crossings comprise one highway hazard that motorists find difficult to negotiate safely. The fact that about one out of every four persons who were injured in grade crossing mishaps died of their hurts, is ample testimony to the fact that when train-meets-automobile the result is far more likely to be fatal than non-fatal.

This record of grade crossing accidents bears testimony to the one big cause of all traffic mishaps—thoughtless haste. A driver believes he can beat a train, and when the race ends in a tie, the motorist loses. The driver endangers not only his own life, but the lives of others in his car and in many cases, of the train passengers.

The increase in crossing accidents is discouraging in view of the fact that other mishaps are showing decreases. This is one safety problem that demands special attention so that progress may be made along the entire traffic front.

JAPAN'S CRISIS

It is becoming increasingly evident that the Japanese have bitten off in China more than they can chew. While it may not have been averted by Premier Konoe's "apology" to the Emperor, the military and the people for having been at home ill, the Cabinet crisis is for the time being lessened. All seems to hinge upon the possible invoking of the new mobilization law. When that was wrong from a reluctant Diet it was with the pledge by the Premier it would not be invoked in connection with the invasion of China.

That the military case has "lost face" because of the Japanese reverses in Southern Shantung Province is unquestioned. It would, if it could, put every man and every machine and every yen, so far as necessary, at the disposal of its war machine. In the present state of the public mind, and in view of the personal intervention of the Emperor, a shadowy figure popularly invested with the attributes of deity, the Premier is evidently determined to move slowly. He will not resign—at least at present.

If, however, a changed situation in China, as the facts are gradually borne in upon them, makes the Japanese people restless and fearful, there is more than one possible eventualities. They cannot fail to regard the projected American naval building program of the next few years as potentially directed against themselves. Their armed forces have just sustained the only severe military defeats since little Japan became a major power. Accordingly, the dream of the great Pacific as pre-eminently their sea must take on occasional nightmare time.

Nominally, meanwhile Japanese-American relations are of the friendliest. We have not invoked against them our own neutrality act, nor covered with dust, just because of the pretense that the war in China is not war at all, as it has never been "declared."

The question that must ultimately be answered is whether Europe is big enough for two Caesars.

"Are we mice or are we men?" asks Lloyd George of his fellow-Britons. The answer is that it all depends.

There don't seem to be any rules in modern warfare. About the only remaining regulation is that generals must die in bed.

The more we observe the Spaniard in action the greater reason we have for thanks that we came out of that trouble in '38 so easily.

We're at a loss as to just how to classify the period in which we are living. All we are certain of is that it isn't the age of chivalry.

The day of miracles is not past, and it is not impossible that Japan may experience the extraordinary sensation of being the underdog in China.

THE NEW CASTLE NEWS EDITORIAL PAGE

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

SPANKING IS ENDORSED

When, in 1930, I advocated selective spanking of young children in my book, "The Modern Parent," I almost became an outcast among professional parent educators five years earlier in "The Learner and His Attitude" a book addressed to teachers. I first expressed in print this point of view, though I had been uttering it from the platform for years. Being the first in the field to express such "outrageous doctrine" on account of which some influential writers assigned me to the Dark Ages, and some university professors ignored or proscribed my books I have consistently advocated selective spanking in the early years to train in the meaning of NO.

A few years ago, another author joined me in this point of view. In this column I told you about that author and her book, "Common Sense for Mothers," by Mrs. John Reilly. Then there were two of us. Now there are three, Elizabeth B. Hurlock, Ph. D., in her book, "Modern Ways with Babies" says:

"During the pre-school years an occasional use of corporal punishment, such as rapping the fingers or spanking is of value. Before the baby is able to understand words, there is no way in which you can actually associate unpleasant meanings with behavior you wish to eliminate except through the use of some form of pain. So if you choose to use this form of punishment, do not do so before the second year. Likewise it should be used very rarely after the age of three or four years."

When Child Moves About

I would say that as soon as the child begins to move about and face danger is the time to use spanking to train in specific inhibitions. In agreement with Dr. Hurlock I should like to see spanking completed by the age of four. I would not, however, say as she does, that it should be used as a "last resort." This last resort business is hazardous. It usually means the time when neither the parent is fit to punish nor the child fit to profit from it. I prefer deliberate planning with both parents acting as one.

Then, as I have said repeatedly in this column, there are hundreds of situations in which spanking is not desirable—such as for getting the child to do what you want him to do, as a rule, and in practically all situations connected with eating and elimination.

I have a reprint of an article of mine, which appeared in one of the leading magazines, entitled, "Do you spank your child?" To be had free by sending me a self-addressed envelope with a three cent stamp on it.

HINTS and DINTS

Sun sets tonight 6:45; sun rises tomorrow 5:12.

The Japanese cherry trees are blooming in front of our place at 315 Edison avenue. If you have not seen this kind of trees blooming in Washington you can see them now. Several other people have the same kind of trees and no doubt will like to have you look at them. They last but a short time. Sunday they will be about at their best.

It is only the homely little girls who have time to read the same book through twice.

Teacher: "Johnny, who was Anne Boleyn?"

Johnny: "Anne Boleyn was a flat iron."

Teacher: "What on earth do you mean?"

Johnny: "Well, it says here in the history book 'Henry, having disposed of Catherine, pressed his suit with Anne Boleyn.'"

Conditions in this country should get better now. Both of the big leagues are in business now, so say nothing of the hundreds of small clubs all over the country. Of course raising some vegetables will also help out when the season is over.

Some of the foreign nations think that just because the United States is building a lot of warships, it is a threat to them. It might not be a threat but it may look like a warning. As long as they keep away from us they will be safe.

"If you wash your face, I'll give you a piece of candy" said grandmother.

"And if you wash behind your ears I'll give you two pieces."

"Grandma" replied Johnny, "maybe I'd better have a bath."

The parking meters seem to be a good thing for some birds to lean on. They are nice and smooth and there is no danger getting splinters in their hides like from telegraph poles.

All Of Us

By MARSHALL MASLIN

THE CHAMPION HAS SOMETHING ELSE

If you work on a newspaper you meet all kinds of people. You meet sad people, you meet Merry Andrews. You meet honest men, you meet crooks. You meet fanatics. You meet people on the way up and people on the way down. You meet the hopeful and the despairing—and you meet Top-boners.

Some of them later you meet Champions. They may have "good personalities" or bad ones. You may like them or dislike them. But you meet them.

Priest fighters, golfers, sculptors. Dancers, wrestlers (male and female), violinists. Explorers, scientists, movie stars. Coaches, actors, poets. Novelists, gamblers, politicians. Gangsters, baseball players, jockeys.

They're all champions and they all have something more than the thing they are doing. They are different. Only a little better than the other fellows who are champions, but they are the champions and the other fellows will never reach the top.

I have puzzled over this difference and wondered what it is that makes the champion what he is. Why does one man make a fortune while another fails? How does one man win the admiration of the crowd, while another who seems just as able gets ignored by his grave? Why do some men climb so high while others flop? What's the difference?

I think I know. The champions I've seen have something besides their special talents. They are serious about their work, to whom the one thing they do best is the most important thing in the world. They do not do it better, they are pointed in one direction and all their energy is shaped toward the perfection of their one talent.

The painter sees color and design everywhere. The writer picks up "copy" in every situation, in every encounter. The composer finds a melody in a traffic jam. The inventor looks at every machine and puzzles over how it can be improved. All the champions have color and ability and confidence—and all the champions have Single-Track Minds.

The reason they call a bell-hop by that odd name is, I presume, because he is always "on the hop" at the call of the bell. If a bell-hop sticks to his job long enough, he becomes so happy after a while that his feet tap incessantly. HINTS and DINTS

Sun sets tonight 6:45; sun rises tomorrow 5:12.

The Japanese cherry trees are blooming in front of our place at 315 Edison avenue. If you have not seen this kind of trees blooming in Washington you can see them now. Several other people have the same kind of trees and no doubt will like to have you look at them. They last but a short time. Sunday they will be about at their best.

It is only the homely little girls who have time to read the same book through twice.

Teacher: "Johnny, who was Anne Boleyn?"

Johnny: "Anne Boleyn was a flat iron."

Teacher: "What on earth do you mean?"

Johnny: "Well, it says here in the history book 'Henry, having disposed of Catherine, pressed his suit with Anne Boleyn.'"

Conditions in this country should get better now. Both of the big leagues are in business now, so say nothing of the hundreds of small clubs all over the country. Of course raising some vegetables will also help out when the season is over.

Some of the foreign nations think that just because the United States is building a lot of warships, it is a threat to them. It might not be a threat but it may look like a warning. As long as they keep away from us they will be safe.

"If you wash your face, I'll give you a piece of candy" said grandmother.

"And if you wash behind your ears I'll give you two pieces."

"Grandma" replied Johnny, "maybe I'd better have a bath."

The parking meters seem to be a good thing for some birds to lean on. They are nice and smooth and there is no danger getting splinters in their hides like from telegraph poles.

THE CHAMPION HAS SOMETHING ELSE

If you work on a newspaper you meet all kinds of people. You meet sad people, you meet Merry Andrews. You meet honest men, you meet crooks. You meet fanatics. You meet people on the way up and people on the way down. You meet the hopeful and the despairing—and you meet Top-boners.

Some of them later you meet Champions. They may have "good personalities" or bad ones. You may like them or dislike them. But you meet them.

Priest fighters, golfers, sculptors. Dancers, wrestlers (male and female), violinists. Explorers, scientists, movie stars. Coaches, actors, poets. Novelists, gamblers, politicians. Gangsters, baseball players, jockeys.

They're all champions and they all have something more than the thing they are doing. They are different. Only a little better than the other fellows who are champions, but they are the champions and the other fellows will never reach the top.

I have puzzled over this difference and wondered what it is that makes the champion what he is. Why does one man make a fortune while another fails? How does one man win the admiration of the crowd, while another who seems just as able gets ignored by his grave? Why do some men climb so high while others flop? What's the difference?

I think I know. The champions I've seen have something besides their special talents. They are serious about their work, to whom the one thing they do best is the most important thing in the world. They do not do it better, they are pointed in one direction and all their energy is shaped toward the perfection of their one talent.

The painter sees color and design everywhere. The writer picks up "copy" in every situation, in every encounter. The composer finds a melody in a traffic jam. The inventor looks at every machine and puzzles over how it can be improved. All the champions have color and ability and confidence—and all the champions have Single-Track Minds.

The World At A Glance

Hitler's Austrian Governor. Paris View In Recent Years. Abided Time To Seize Power.

By LESLIE EICHEL, Central Press Columnist.

NOW THAT Austria is part of the German Reich and Dr. Arthur Seyss-Inquart is Hitler's governor there this is interesting.

It is an excerpt or two from a translation by "The Living Age" of an article in the Paris-Midi, a Parisian moderate daily.

"If anything should go wrong, remember this address: Am Hof 5, District 1, Vienna. That is what secret Austrian Nazi agents have been whispering into each other's ears for more than two years."

Am Hof 5 was a two apartment in the aristocratic section of Vienna, furnished in somewhat outmoded luxury. There, beyond the law, lived a prominent Viennese attorney named Dr. Arthur Seyss-Inquart. But this man of the law led a double life. Let us suppose that a Nazi emissary from Berlin or Munich needed forged papers. He turned to the given address. A friend had to be rescued from prison. The prominent lawyer intervened directly by approaching a judge whom he knew well. A meeting of the extreme nationalists was to be held. It took place in Seyss-Inquart's apartment, where they were safe from the police.

In the evening, in full dress with white tie, he might chat amiably in his theater box with the men who were still the masters of Austria—although their doom had already been sealed. These men, who had sent some of the visitors to Am Hof 5 to the execution block, were Chancellor Schuschnigg and his ministers. Some day the story of Hitler's conquest of Austria will be written. It will be an exciting and pathetic novel covering a period of three years, the scope of which will alternate between society and the Viennese underworld.

Where's The Difference?

Washington, April 23. THE old saying about people who strain at a gnat but can swallow a camel may not exactly fit a certain Washington situation, but it is at least called to mind by the swift punishment inflicted upon Mr. Horace Russell, the thrifty, letter-writing general counsel of the HOLC, as contrasted to the smiling security with which the President's secretary son, James Roosevelt, pursues his lucrative insurance way.

MR. RUSSELL, it developed while holding a minor Government post, sent out franked letters highly commending a former member of the HOLC legal staff who had resigned to practice law in Washington. The charge was made on the floor of the House that this was "sordid and disgraceful," that it in effect was an announcement of the partnership of Mr. Russell with the other lawyer; that it was a deliberate use of governmental position and influence to make money. Democrats as well as Republicans took this view.

AS SOON as the facts were called to the attention of Mr. John E. Fahney, head of the HOLC, there was prompt action. The HOLC is one of the cleanest and most competently conducted of the New Deal agencies, and Mr. Fahney has no doubts as to his view of such practices. Mr. Russell's resignation was immediately announced and he stepped out of his position under a heavy fire of criticism and disapproval. With no desire to minimize the impropriety of Mr. Russell's conduct, it is none the less a little difficult not to regard the indignation in his case and his summary dismissal as somewhat out of proportion when compared with the complicity with which Administration circles acquiesce in the connection of Mr. James Roosevelt with the insurance business. The firm is Roosevelt & Sargent. It sells all kinds of insurance and found Mr. Roosevelt is the senior partner.

BRILLIANT MIND

The article continues: "Arthur Seyss-Inquart had specialized the art of boring from within. He had a brilliant mind and memory and always managed to adjust his face and manner to the person with whom he was talking. Rapidly he became one of the (Continued On Page Five)

DESTRUCTIVE

The safety argument for the passing of an Act of Congress to limit the length of a railway train to seventy cars has not a leg upon which to stand and any intelligent man can see that the operation of more trains and the employment of more train crews to carry a certain amount of freight will very materially increase the cost of transportation. In the end the shippers would have to pay the cost of the extra trains and the extra crews.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has issued reports covering the experience of many years, proving that longer trains are safe trains. Equally important, they are faster—strange as it might seem to a tyro—and more efficient trains. The passage of the "Seventy Car Limit Act" would not only add to the hazards of railroad operation and cost of service, but it would adversely affect all shippers, especially farmers.

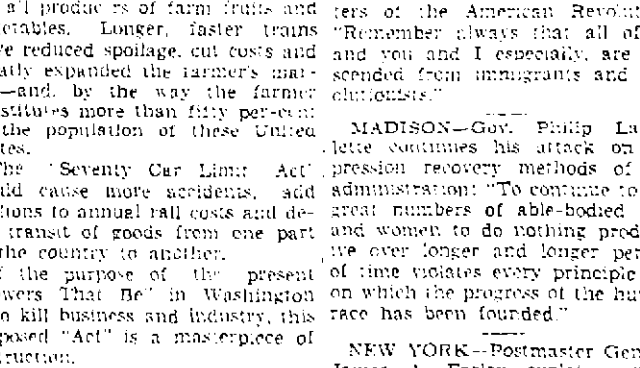

For example, due to longer and faster trains, the fruit grower of California to three days' nearer the Eastern seaboard than a short time ago, and two days nearer the great Chicago market. The Florida citrus fruit growers are two days nearer the Eastern and Middle-western consumer centers. The Georgia peach is two days also nearer New York and New England. So it goes for a product of farm fruits and vegetables. Longer, faster trains have reduced spoilage, cut costs and greatly expanded the farmer's market—and by the way the farmer constitutes more than fifty per cent of the population of these United States.

The "Seventy Car Limit Act" would cause more accidents, add millions to annual rail costs and delay transit of goods from one part of the country to another.

The purpose of the present Powers that Be in Washington is to kill business and industry, this proposed "Act" is a masterpiece of destruction.

Elks Charity Ball
Highly Successful

Several Hundred Merry-makers Participate In Delightful Event

ELLWOOD CITY, April 23.—While the Elks' 18th annual charity ball is being written in the past tense today, it will long be a bright, happy memory in the lives of several hundred merry-makers, many from out of town, who participated in the gay, colorful event held last evening in their beautiful ballroom.

During the past years this dance has been the foremost activity of the lodge and the dance of the season locally. To have the dance take its place among the outstanding ones of the past the various committees and chairmen spared no effort to emulate their predecessors, and they accomplished their aim in no uncertain manner.

Adding to the already stately beauty of the ballroom, the stage was elegantly and decorated in a novel manner. Figures in silhouette, appropriate to the Easter season, were used in conjunction with the wall lights, and a beautiful floral design was arranged about the center light. Stylish new gowns worn by the ladies added greatly to an already radiant setting.

The orchestra lived up to its advanced reputation and was one of the finest, if not the finest, ever to play in the city, and the dancers were voted in their praise for the committee's wise choice in selecting this popular orchestra.

Joseph Wilkowsky and Fred D. Poister, co-chairmen of the dance, made their initial bow as directors of the Easter classic, and with their most capable committees accomplished an enviable record for themselves that will be difficult to surpass.

Hospital Drive Now In Progress

Solicitors Covering City In Campaign To Raise $9,500 To Save Hospital

ELLWOOD CITY, April 23.—Weary and some down-hearted workers for the hospital drive reported that a great many of our citizens are not giving, according to their means in order to save the local hospital.

A great many families whose working support is only a few days a week came through with splendid contributions while others on steady income did not give in proportion to their needs. Dr. Helling, drive chairman, stated today after a check-up of yesterday's solicitation, that if we expect to reach the $9,500.00 goal, we have to have much greater financial support in today's solicitation. Dr. Helling further remarked that he was absolutely sure that everyone in this community would do everything in their power to have the goal reached, but it seems as though some are expecting the other fellow to do it.

The Merchant's Division of the Chamber of Commerce will hold a "pep" breakfast on Monday morning for the solicitors of that organization that will cover the down town business section on Monday morning.

Results of Fridays and today's solicitations will be announced in Monday's paper.

Annual Showing Of Class Room Work Attracts Many Parents To School

WORK IS DISPLAYED ABOUT CLASS ROOMS

From the time of opening at 7 o'clock, Friday evening, until closing time at 10:15 o'clock, the Union township high school was filled with spectators who toured the many rooms, inspecting the exhibit of classroom work done by the students of the township schools.

Purpose of this exhibit was to acquaint the public with the actual work accomplished by the students while they are in school each day. The exhibits were all artistically arranged in the various rooms by members of the art department under the supervision of the faculty members.

In all the halls and rooms, members of the guide staff, composed of school students, directed and explained the various exhibits in an intelligent manner. To the huge crowd of spectators, approximately 1,500 persons went through the building Friday evening.

In the auditorium was an exhibit of model airplanes which attracted considerable attention and drew a great deal of comment. These planes were built and displayed by members of the U-Hi Birdmen club, who expect to enter them in the coming model airplane contest on May 30.

The entire teaching staff, headed by Jay G. Rudolph, supervising principal, and Milton Patterson, high school principal, guided the roll of hosts in an excellent manner.

A commercial exhibit in the auditorium was interesting. Here a large number of industries and local firms, arranged the products of their shops.

One of the most interesting places in the building was the science room. Here students were working on class-room projects and the weird workings of the scientific world were brought to light to entertain the spectators.

Another interesting spot, on the same floor with the science room, was the art department headquarters. Here the artistic nature of the students was displayed in work done during hours in the class room. Thomas Salsbury, new instructor at the school, was on hand in his department to explain the various features.

Philip Alquist, 3, of 926 Ashland avenue, suffered fractures of both legs, Friday afternoon when struck by bus driven by Clifford Weatherly, R. D. 2. The accident occurred in North Liberty street, south of Mahoning avenue, about 3:10 p. m. The child is in the New Castle hospital.

According to reports Weatherly was driving a bus owned by W. W. Smeal which hauls P & E railroad passengers. The child was said to have run from the east side of the curb toward the west side of North Liberty street.

The front center of the bus struck the child. A passenger on the bus picked up the boy, who was hurriedly removed to the hospital.

Dear Brother Lion:
Following a short business meeting next Tuesday, we will be led in a discussion by "Ex" Marvin. As you know, the last three letters of the word L-I-O-N-S stand for "Our Nation's Safety." This will be the subject under consideration. Every member will have an opportunity to give expression to his idea of what will preserve our nation's safety.

Give some thought to the subject and be ready to speak if you so desire.
Very truly yours,
THOMAS I. ELLIOTT,
Secretary.

Basketball Teams At East Brook Hi Honored At Banquet

Over 150 From East Brook Community Attend Fine Dinner And Dance

Athletic Awards Given Out By Coaches Emerick And Powell, Girl Singers Feature

East Brook Athletic association held its annual banquet last night at East Brook high school gym, where more than 150 from the East Brook community gathered in honor of the East Brook high girls' and boys' basketball teams for the annual recognition banquet. Robert L. Meermans, general secretary of the New Castle "Y," was the speaker.

The banquet consisted of roast chicken and stuffing that melted in your mouth. Of course, there were potatoes, salad and all that, but the chicken "hit the spot." The ladies of the East Brook A. A. outshone themselves in the preparation of the fine meal.

Mayberry Presides
Harold "Huck" Mayberry, president of the East Brook A. A., took over the role of toastmaster at the end of the eating part of the event and called upon W. R. Walton, president of the East Brook school board, for a few remarks. Charles "Bugs" Walther of The News was called upon for a few brief remarks. Professor Ralph E. Watson, principal of East Brook high, was called upon for a talk and following which he presented the assemblage with the girls' ensemble of East Brook singing champions if there ever were any, and the girls responded with a very lovely number. The girls' ensemble has taken everything but the state championship so far, and will compete for that honor later.

Professor Watson then called upon Coach Miss Marjorie Powell, who gave a very fine talk and handed out the awards. The girls of the squad gave Miss Powell a very fine gift in appreciation of her efforts. Coach Dr. Emerick, of the boys' team was the next speaker and passed out letters following a very fine talk, in which he reviewed the past season and said that next year the East Brook high team will be heard from in a big way.

Meermans Gives Talk
The next and final speaker was Robert L. Meermans, general secretary of the New Castle Y. M. C. A., who gave the boys and girls a splendid lot of advice on body-building and character-building that will stand them in good stead in later years. He told of several incidents of athletes that had given all of their strength to the game of basketball. He told of others who for years have enjoyed volleyball and basketball at the "Y," and have built strong, healthy bodies and minds.

All in all, Mr. Meermans gave a very fine talk and got a big hand when he concluded. The one big point stressed by Meermans was the fact that it isn't the championship that counts, it's the way the boys and girls handle themselves, even in defeat.

Awards Given Out
Athletic letters and certificates were awarded the following girls by Coach Miss Marjorie Powell: Miss Reba McCreary, Miss Lois Walton, Miss Dorothy Young, Miss Edith Kelley, Miss Pauline Scott, Miss Sophia Wallas, Miss Dorothy Floyd, Miss Dorothy McConnell, student manager.

TALES IN TIDBITS

By BILL BRAUCHER
Central Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 23.—We have only one relic left of the Golden Decade of sports. But that relic happens to be in pretty fair shape. We mean Helen Wills Moody.

The old boys are sitting feebly by the fireside—Dempsey, Tunney, Tilden, Jones, Ruth—but the little lady who pinned up her pigtail under a visor and trounced Molla Bjurstedt Mallory 15 years ago at Forest Hills is on her way to Europe again, seeking another world tennis championship. And with a pretty good chance of winning it, too.

Her name has been in the public prints so long that Helen seems to be a very old character you might expect to come across smoking a cob pipe. Actually she is only 32 years old, but she has been playing tennis for close to 20 years, championship tennis for 15 years. This is her third comeback. Once she had to take time out for an appendicitis operation, once for marriage, once for a spinal injury.

Only one other great champion of the last 15 years possessed in a comparable degree the magnificent self-control that Helen brought to the tennis courts. She destroyed the tempestuous Molla Mallory back in 1923 with such icy calm that the press wrote her "Miss Poker Face." One scribe wrote that the beads of perspiration that rolled down from her brow that day surely must have formed icicles. She had that same quality two years ago at Wimbledon when Helen Jacobs, her arch rival, had her beaten, all but one point, and she rallied to crush her over-eager, more demonstrative opponent. In her conquests she has displayed the same calm technique with which Tunney slashed Dempsey to his doom 12 years ago in Philadelphia.

Champion At 17
Helen was 12 or 13 years old when her father, Clarence A. Wills, a physician in Berkeley, Cal., started to train her as a tennis player. In a few weeks she was beating her dad. "Pop" Fuller coached her, then Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman of Boston (donor of the Wightman cup) took her in charge. Helen was the national girls' champion in 1921. It was not until 1923 that she finally caught up with the spectacular Molla and became national champion at 17.

In the old days she wore a simple frock that might have been made by her ever-present mother. The distinguishing thing about her was the white visor. Before Helen came along, most of the tennis people simply put a band about their heads. Helen "made" the visor. Both men and women adopted it when the champion took it up. Today her attire is the height of sophisticated fashion. Through the years she has "kept training" faithfully. Physically she is fit as a fiddle.

Chance For Revenge Blocked
Helen's most crushing defeat came at the hands of the incomparable Suzanne Lenglen. After beating Molla, Helen went to Wimbledon to meet the great French star, then at the top of her game. The match was the most ballpointed tennis battle of the century. A syndicate of French gamblers bet 5,000,000 francs to 1,000,000 that Suzanne would win. Suzanne won, 6-4, 8-6. Helen was a game loser, praiseworthy copiously in the press with such phrases as "There is nobody like her—she is a wonder!" Secretly Helen longed for another whack at Suzanne, for she believed in her heart she could take her, too. She almost got the chance in Paris, but two days before the match appendicitis smote Miss Poker Face. When Lenglen turned pro, Helen's chance for revenge was gone forever.

DECAPRIO TEAM WINS
The Decaprio softball team of the Midges league handed the Dewey A. C. a 6 to 5 defeat yesterday at Scott Field, with Carl "Cy" Conklin giving up but eight hits. A Moralla featured the hitting.

WANTS TO BOOK GAMES
The Mahoning A. A. Reserves team would like to book games with any last team in Lawrence county. Managers wishing games should call Bennie Pelosi at 3789-R, or write to 303 South Ashland avenue.

Rambling Around World Of Sports

An idle thought... say, tell me, did the manufacturers make a mistake? ... it seems to me that the National League voted in December to use a dealer ball this season ... there's something screwy ... maybe the baseball factory got twisted up ... perusing the box scores of the inaugural season, there is conclusive proof that the new "dealer" balls were shipped to the American and the National Leagues drew the apples tossed in the American loop ... the "gang busters" look like minor leaguers compared to the National circuiters ... pipe these figures: ... in four of the games, the supposed to be "minor league" only blasted out 99 hits for a grand total of a mere 157 bases with their new ball ... aided by an extra game between the Yankees and Red Sox, the best the Americans could do was poke out 68 hits for 103 bases ... there is something radically wrong, there has to be ... separating the blows—22 doubles, two triples, 12 homers and 63 singles which produced 63 runs ... the American loopsters blasted out only 12 doubles, four triples, five homers and 47 singles for something like 40 runs ... if this continues, we anticipate the selection of an investigating committee to look into the matter. ... P.S.—Up to Friday morning, the National League led the home run parade 23 to 10 ...

Free Advice to Henry Armstrong
... came the following letter today ... Rambling Reporter ... "For benefit of Henry Armstrong" ... some years ago ... while I was living in Milwaukee ... of all sports I like boxing best, while I could and I saw tournaments, great fighters, has been and failures ... I will always remember one boy—King Tut, from somewhere in Minnesota ... he was a lightweight and a great one ... at that time, he beat every boy that came along ... none could stand up under the punishment that he administered which I believe is the reason he never became champ ... the champ of that division would not meet him so he stepped out of his class to fight heavier men ... he was such a hard puncher that he knocked a heavyweight in Tommy Mary's gym ... between Tut and Armstrong, there wasn't much difference in their great punishing power though I would say Tut was the better of the two, though when he stepped out of his class he was on his way down ... he met a welterweight out West by the name of My Sullivan, he wasn't too good nor was he a bad fighter, but he was too good for Tut in 10 rounds ... then Tut went to N. Y., he had a few fights in the heavier class which didn't do him any good ... then one night after a fight he went to the hospital and was operated on and King Tut was done as a fighter ... the last I heard of him he went back to Minnesota ... Now Armstrong is a favorite with me.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND
William Scott, Squaw Creek County club pro, was elected president of the Youngstown district Professional Golfers association at their annual meeting at Youngstown yesterday. Al Alcotti of the Youngstown Country club was chosen vice president and Jim McGunigal was named secretary-treasurer.

Sun Egret, A. C. Compton's mud-ridden son of Sun Brier, probably will not be shipped to Churchill Downs for the Kentucky Derby. May 7, Trainer H. G. Bedwell said at Bayre de Grace yesterday. He will run in the Preakness today and will then be sent to Pimlico for the Preakness. His trainer does not believe Sun Egret is a good shipper. The Preakness is a sixteenth of a mile shorter than the Derby and the trainer believes this distance will suit Sun Egret, who is favored to take today's event if the track is muddy.

Yanks Win Fourth
Only 20,000 saw the Pirates take their fourth straight by downing the Reds, 7-4. Pirate fans are used to seeing their team start with a rush in the spring and fold up in the fall, but under stricter management by Pie Traynor the Pirates may fool them this year. Incidentally, Red Lucas turned in his thirteenth straight victory over the Reds who, except for Derringer, have failed to show a pitcher capable of going the route.

Yanks Top Senators
The Yanks came through with a 7-0 decision over the Senators whom Red Ruffing held to four hits. The Yanks are getting good pitching but their hitting is far from their usual high-powered standard. They will be glad to get Joe DiMaggio back today, especially since their other scribe cur, Lou Gehrig, isn't hitting a lick. In fact, the iron horse has been up 17 times and has yet to get his first hit.

The rejuvenated Browns went 13 innings before bowing to the White Sox, 4-3. Brown won his own game when he doubled and scored on Steinbacher's single.

INDIANS DEFEAT DETROIT 4 TO 3
By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, April 23.—This observer has no desire to stick out his neck trying to decide whether Detroit or Brooklyn is the best baseball town in the country. But, judging by their attendance figures yesterday, any neutral bystander would have to admit each might justly lay claim to the honor.

Rowe In Shape
Despite the defeats, the home town fans in both places saw hope for the future. In Detroit it was the great pitching of Schoolboy Rowe who held the Indians to one hit in five innings after Bridges went out. It wasn't a true indication that Rowe is himself again, the Tigers' percent chances will increase about 25 percent.

WASHINGTON AT A GLANCE

Commissions Too Numerous

Question Now Puzzling Observers Is "Who Will Kill Them Off?"

BUREAUS BATTLE WITH EACH OTHER

Central Press Washington Bureau April 23.—Uncle Sam's "independent offices and establishments," as they are classified in the Congressional Directory, are getting into an extraordinary number of rumpuses within their respective spheres recently.

These setups are variously described as commissions (like the Civil Service Commission), administrations (like the Federal Housing Administration), boards (like the Federal Home Loan Bank Board), authorities (like the Tennessee Valley Authority), corporations (like the Reconstruction Finance Corporation), councils (like the National Emergency Council), committees (like the National Resources Committee) et cetera.

There are 75 or 80 of them.

TOO MANY?

This is altogether too many. Congress creates one, now and then, to meet some temporary situation, which probably really needs to be met just at that particular juncture, but which does not need to be met everlastingly. But such an "independent office," once created, almost never is abolished, however completely the justification for its existence may have faded into oblivion.

Such survivals are both wasteful and a nuisance. They are partly legislative, partly judicial, partly executive. Their powers overlap. Two or three dozens of them undoubtedly ought to be extinguished.

QUIET ONCE, NOT NOW

Heretofore, however, most of them have been contented to keep comparatively quiet, drawing regular salaries but kicking up no unpleasant commotion.

But lately several of them have taken to quarreling, each within its own membership, in a fashion to attract attention. This sort of thing is becoming tiresome.

Moreover, it is poor policy on the "independent offices" part. They impel their jobs by making their uselessness overly apparent.

IN "REVOLT"

The Tennessee Valley Authority ruckus has been the most outstanding. With President Roosevelt forced to take a hand and with a congressional investigation beginning.

The Bituminous Coal Commission is torn wide open, internally.

Members of the Federal Communications Commission are exchanging mutual accusations.

The Interstate Commerce Commission's decisions are rendered with ugly dissenting opinions.

The National Labor Relations Board's rulings are the subject of hot controversy.

Rows in other "independent offices" are sizzling.

OLD ERA FIGHTS NEW

Just what started this epidemic of disagreements is not entirely clear.

Perhaps it is due to the fact that some of the numerous commissions, committees, administrators and authoritarians are left-overs from a more conservative era, while others are up-to-date New Dealers. Clashes between them multiply week by week, anyway.

REORGANIZATION

Of course such a state of affairs calls for governmental reorganization, concerning which there has been such an uproar during the current session of congress.

No one disputes the necessity for it.

The only question is: Who should do the reorganizing? Congress? Or the president?

Congress created the "independent offices." Has the president any right to abolish what congress has created? "No," is the correct democratic answer. Nevertheless, experience has proved that congress never WILL abolish them. Yet a lot of them MUST be abolished.

And the president stands ready to do it. Yet if he does, he will be usurping congressional authority.

A deadlock!

Well, it may be broken. The public may get so sick of the "independent offices" that it will authorize ANYBODY to abolish them. The "independent offices" seem by their scrapping, to be hastening such a solution.

It took four years to do it, but juvenile officer Jack M. Dunlap finally brought a father to his duty and relieved the county of further care of three small children.

The case is that of Joseph Conti. Back in 1935 he was arrested upon a charge of desertion and non-support. His wife Anna bringing the charges. The trial was scheduled for June and was held over until September. In the meantime Conti went to Cleveland, O., and after a time got a divorce, leaving his wife with four children. She later married but tried unsuccessfully to get Conti to help support his four youngsters.

Dunlap had the case and has been waiting for four years for Conti to come back into New Castle. When Sheriff M. M. Ingham assumed office, Dunlap told him of the case and asked him to look out for Conti. Some days ago Deputy Clyde Badger heard Conti in the city and with Sheriff Ingham and Deputy George Deah went down to the house where Conti was staying. He was taken to the county jail, much against his will, and after staying there a few days was released upon the promise to take three of his children back to Cleveland with him.

After thorough consideration the county commissioners declined the invitation of Supervisor Frank E. Smith of Shenango township to provide $10,000 for a flood control project on the Bid Run. It was Smith's plan to build three dams in the run, above Cascade park, and prevent flood damage in the south side of New Castle at spring freshet time. The commissioners went into the matter carefully and finally concluded that this year's budget would not stand the strain of $10,000.

One flood control project that has been in Harrisburg for some time has been approved by the Water Power and Resources Board. It is the project for the Neshannock river near the old paper mill. The banks will be rip rapped on both sides and the channel bed improved. A project similar to this was recently completed at Cherry street. It is worth a trip down there to see what has been done. The channel of the stream has been dug out in the center, the west bank reclaimed, rip rapped, a lot of land reclaimed and the danger to the Cherry street bridge averted. About two more flood stages in the Shenango river and the bridge would have been gone with the water.

An amicable action in ejectment has been filed in the office of Prothonotary and Clerk of Courts John A. Edgar by Frank Straw against Kenneth L. and Martha Fitzgerald.

The need for more room in the court house continues to be a vexing problem to the county commissioners. Several plans have been suggested, one to purchase the Boyles property, another to build an addition on the west side of the building and now a third alternate is under consideration. This would add two rooms in the front of the sheriff's residence, making one of them the sheriff's office. This would permit the commissioners to knock out the partition between the prothonotary's office and the sheriff's office and give the prothonotary extra room for badly needed file room space. Edgar's office is the most crowded of any in the court house.

baseball catcher, is the course manager. He is fully conversant with golf and having formerly served in his present capacity.

Council expects to pass the ordinance which provides for the grading of Crescent avenue as soon as the printing office has reported favorably from committee by council.

AROUND CITY HALL

The trench for the North Mercer street-Euclid avenue sewer has been dug from the Shenango river to Wilmington avenue, according to city officials. They also report that it has been possible to lay the tile sewer in water.

Placing of no parking signs on portions of Lincoln and Wallace avenue and Blaine and Young streets is designed to give other auto traffic a chance to flow through the thoroughfares between 6 p.m. and 11 p.m.

John Street who has helped the city do blueprint drawing has been returned to the WPA payroll. He is a field engineer. He helped to prepare the plans for the various streets which are and yet remain to be paved.
